Design Philosophy

This faith-centered social platform merges the contemplative depth of spiritual formation with the energy of authentic Christian community. The visual identity balances sacred intention with social connection, creating a digital sanctuary that feels both peaceful and alive. The design language emphasizes meaningful interaction over addictive engagement, spiritual growth over vanity metrics, and authentic relationships over surface-level connections.

The aesthetic draws from natural elements that symbolize spiritual growth - earth tones for grounding, growing greens for life and progress, warm golds for celebration and divine light, and calming blues for prayer and reflection.

<app-overview>

Elevator Pitch

A faith-centered social platform that combines spiritual growth tools (Bible study, prayer, journaling) with authentic Christian community features (hubs, accountability partnerships, prayer walls) to create the definitive digital space for believers to connect with God and each other in meaningful, intentional ways - the first platform to merge Facebook-style social sharing with comprehensive spiritual formation tools.

Problem Statement

Current spiritual apps (YouVersion, Abide, Hallow) focus solely on individual devotional practices but lack social connection. Meanwhile, secular social platforms don't support faith-centered community building. Christians are forced to fragment their digital spiritual life across multiple disconnected platforms, missing opportunities for authentic faith-based relationships, accountability, and shared spiritual growth that comes from combining personal devotion with community engagement.

Target Audience

Primary: Active Christians aged 18-45 who are digitally native and seeking deeper spiritual community Secondary: Church communities and small groups looking for digital fellowship tools

Tertiary: New believers and those exploring faith who want guided spiritual resources

USP

The first social platform designed specifically for spiritual formation - combining Facebook-style content sharing with comprehensive devotional tools, creating authentic Christian relationships through shared faith practices, accountability, and purpose-driven content in a theologically inclusive environment.

Target Platforms

Mobile-first approach (iOS/Android) with potential web companion for churches and group leaders

</app-overview>

Follow the guidelines above precisely to ensure correctness. Your output should be a horizontal series of vertical screens showcasing each view specified below. For each problem, you brainstorm 3 different solutions to that same problem. Each angle should be unique, but still conform to the overall UX/UI parameters of this app.

#1 - We are going to create the streaks feature. We want the users to visually see how consistent they have been. They will be able to see the streams displayed from the prayer time bible reading time and other features the app has to offer. Think of it also like a habit tracker

</task>

<output>

Make sure each "screen" is in it's own contained file, and gets imported into the main App view. Place all screens on the main application route ("/")
